

"The ingenious child"

A boy named Tom was feeling at full speed from a cheetah. Wich was a very hungry inside a very leafy forest, the boy was ingenious and skilled, when he come across a tree and decided to climb it without was thinking twice.

Tom had realized that this animal did not want to climber therefore it was not hungering Wich would facilitate a safe scape, the boy was seeing that there were tangerines around him, he tooked a fruit, he had aimed at the animal and with all his night he threw object this mode the cheetah realize that it was a strong person and that it would not by easy to was catching it.

The animal decides to withdraw from the place, having tom free, and the boy calmed down from the great fright and ended up returning home by another way. Knowing that the next time you want to return to the forest, you will not cross the leafy area again and take the long way

-Santiago Rodríguez

-Gabriel Agudo