Hello children!! This is your homework for this week. Remember to concentrate and work alone at home. I hope you enjoy it.

You will work on your COPYBOOKS. This activity IS NOT in your books.

HOMEWORK

Read about KEN and do the following activities:

A charity shop is a place where you take old toys, clothes, books and other things that you don't want. The shop sells them and gives the money to help people. I usually go to the charity shops every Saturday morning with my Dad. I often buy model kits or sometimes I find stickers or trading cards for my collections. They're cheaper than new toys. My dad always looks for books or board games for me and my brother. They're cooler than computer games. My little brother always wants to buy soft toys but Dad says new soft toys are better than old ones. My brother also likes buying bracelets and key rings. I don't buy puzzle books from charity shops because they always have writing in them and I never buy felt-tip pens either – they never work!
